

CALABRIA IS THE SUNDAY TIMES' TOP BEACH DESTINATION

Tropea, also known as the pearl of Calabria, was recently named by the Sunday Times as its top beach holiday destination ahead of more famous locations in Ibiza, France and Sardinia.

Described as having superb white sandy beaches by the turquoise Tyrrhenian Sea, Tropea pulls off a rare trick by managing to be both unspoilt and fashionable.

The town is a maze of steep narrow streets, Renaissance churches and beautiful pastel coloured palazzos and is becoming one of the most sought-after places in Calabria for British and Irish homeowners as prices are still low – from only €61,900.

According to legend, Tropea was founded by the ancient hero Hercules, and its lofty cliff top position puts it well above its rivals – quite literally! It is a truly stunning place to enjoy balmy days on the beach or tranquil evenings sipping wine while watching the glorious sunset over the Tyrrhenian Sea.
